

Specifications

I, Hipólito Hernandez, have invented a new design for a pet-feeding dish. It is called the "Island Ant-Guard Pet Feeding Dish," as set forth, in the following specifications. The most important features are the water border and the extended lip overlapping the trench holding the water.

Fig. 1 Is a top view of the feeding dish where the food sits along with the extended lip protecting the water border below.

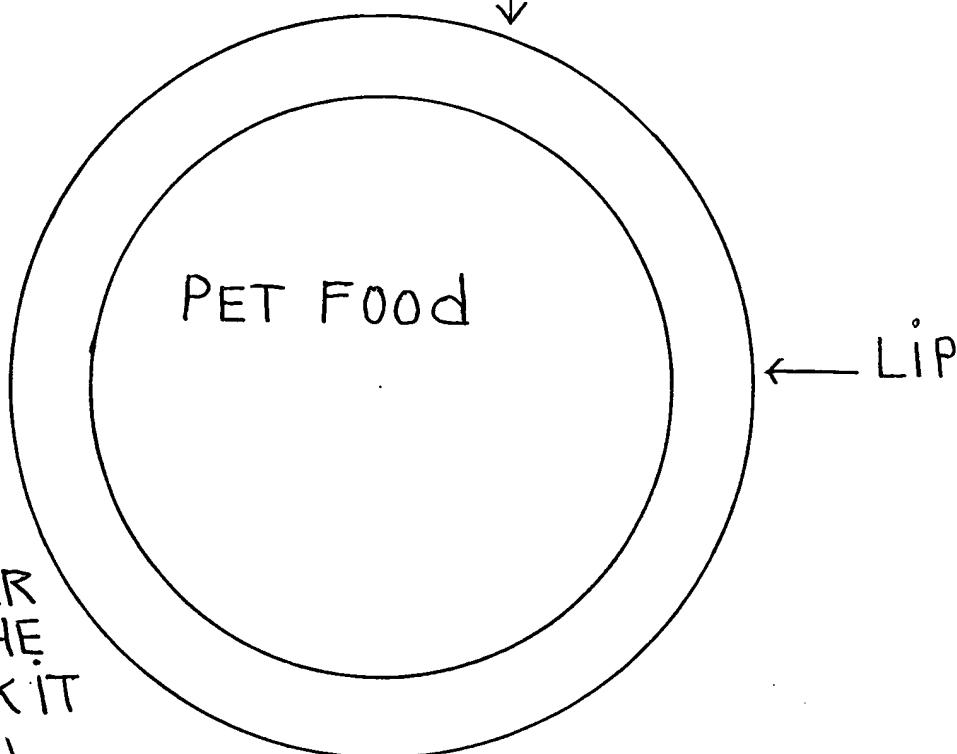

Fig. 2 Is a side view of feeding dish, featuring the overhanging lip, along with where the water sits as a border against unwanted ants.

I claim: the ornamental design for a pet-feeding dish as shown.
